About the Project	Background: In 2013, President Xi Jinping proposed the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI). Over the past ten years, BRI has been expanding its circle of friends by following the principle of extensive consultation and joint contribution for shared benefits and has gained the support and participation of more than 100 countries and international organizations. BRI profoundly impacts the global economic governance mechanism and, to a certain extent, propels the economic growth of developing countries. At the same time, a platform for exchange and cooperation among developing countries will be established, supporting the building of a community with a shared future for mankind. Content: The topics of the seminar will mainly cover an overview of China's national conditions, China's development and Chinese modernization since the reform and opening up, the BRI practice and the Global Development Initiative, Chinese leaders' philosophy of governance, a community of a shared future for mankind and China's foreign policy, China's experience in agricultural development, China's exploration and experience in industrial development, China's experience in industrial park construction, China's experience in poverty reduction and examples for developing countries.

	Methods: Invite Chinese experts in relevant fields to give lectures on special topics; organize seminars and exchanges between participants and experts, and among participants; visit other cities to experience local economic and social development, learn about the vitality of local enterprises and international cooperation experience, and explore relevant cooperation possibilities. (The above is the preliminary schedule, which may be adjusted according to the actual situation, and the final version will be provided upon arrival in China.)
